How Cookies work

Cookies are small text files that a user's browser stores in a directory designed for this purpose on his or her computer. As a result of these Cookies, the text entries you make in form fields on the Website are saved so that you do not have to enter the same information again the next time you visit the Website or when you want to use a different function on the Website. The information stored on these Cookies does not include personal data, such as your name, age or email address. In addition, we do not link Cookies to such personal data that we have collected from you.

Cookie settings

You can decide for yourself whether our Website's web server is allowed to save Cookies on your computer or not. You can opt to change your browser settings so that they do not allow Cookies to be accepted or saved at any time. You can delete the files that contain Cookies – those files are stored as part of your internet browser. If you wish to restrict or block the Cookies which are set by our Website, or indeed any other website, or if you wish to receive a warning message every time before you accept Cookies or decline Cookies completely, you can do this through your browser settings. The Help function within your browser should tell you how. Please be aware that declining or denying Cookies may prevent you from being able to use the website to its highest capability.

We would like to emphasize that if you decline Cookies on the Website, some functions on the Website may be limited or unavailable. As a result, to make it easier to use the Website, we recommend that your browser settings accept Cookies on the Website.
